The first Physics 123 midterm exam (also known as the common hour exam) will take place on Sunday, October 11, from 6:10-7:30 PM. The location of your exam is determined by the first letters of your last name. Please find the correct exam room at this link:

The exams will have your name pre-printed on the cover page. If you come to the wrong room, you won’t be allowed to take the exam there.

The exam covers Chapters 1-4 from the textbook, except the sections on vector products, and on circular motion.

All Physics 123 exams will be multiple choice and closed-book. For each Common Hour Exam, you may bring with you a single "formula sheet": ONE 8.5 x 11 inch sheet of paper (OK to use both sides, but no photocopies) on which you may write any information that might be helpful to you during the exam. The numerical values of relevant constants will be provided to you. You must bring a calculator to the exams (with no stored course information), as well as pencils for the computer forms. Communicating devices of any kind will not be allowed. In particular, cell phones must be turned off and placed in a bag (or similar) so that they cannot be seen by you or by anyone else. Failure to obey this rule will be considered cheating. Consequences of cheating and academic dishonesty are severe, ranging from failing the course to expulsion from the University. Don't do it!

Make-up Exams: To take a make-up exam, you have to obtain PRIOR PERMISSION from Prof. Kiryukhin. Exam locations and dates will be announced later. A written explanation of why you must miss the exam, with supporting written evidence such as a note from health services, or written evidence of a conflicting exam, is required. You are advised to resolve conflicts by changing your conflicting engagement, rather than rely on the make-up exam(s) in this course. In brief, the (practically complete) list of the valid reasons for a makeup is: documented medical reason (including family emergency), recognized religious holiday, conflict with another exam (confirmed by the appropriate instructor). NOTE: even if you wrote me and communicated with me on the subject of the makeup exam before, write me again. I am collecting this information “from scratch” now.
